

International Pathways Initiative

- Joint initiative with the Provost's Office and OGE, begun in Spring 2019
- Awarded for embedded and sustainable study abroad programs
- Encourages departments to have an academic path that includes an international experience for its majors

Ideas for Application	Possible Use of Funds
Select and promote semester-long exchange programs <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Create an academic path for study at one or more partner institutions (or a new partner institution) using degree maps and advising sheets with an alternative, international path through the major - Equate partner institution course offerings to standardize the process - Promote international pathway to majors and minors through publications, website, social media 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Faculty time spent to equate courses - Site visit if desired - Department marketing materials
Create a faculty-led program that is sustainable and embedded into the degree program <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Consider having more than one faculty member involved to enhance sustainability - Consider existing themes in the major and how to expand upon those with international experiences 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Faculty salary for study abroad course - Faculty time - Department marketing materials
Create tracks within the major covering international themes and recommend study abroad experiences to complete the track <ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Faculty-led programs (summer, winter, pre-term, spring break) - Semester exchange programs - Certificate program 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> - Faculty time spent to create the tracks - Faculty salary for study abroad course - Faculty time spent to equate courses - Department marketing materials